

Michael's Camping Trip with His friends

Michael went on a camping trip with his friends last Saturday. They were all thrilled and excited. They brought a lot of camping equipment such as tents, sleeping bags and torches for camping. When they arrived at the camping site in Sai Kung, Michael was helping everyone set up their tents. One of Michael's friends, Bob, was picking up some sticks from the ground because he could use them to make a campfire. Michael's another friend, Simon, was carrying two buckets of water just in case something bad happened.

When they finished the setup, someone suggested, "Shall we do some activities like mountain biking and canoeing? They are very challenging." Everyone agreed and felt excited.

Michael's friend, Tom, saw a giant mountain. He came up with a great idea and he shouted, "Who is brave enough to try rock climbing on that giant mountain?" Michael always wanted to go rock climbing, so he shouted immediately, "I want to go rock climbing. It seems very fun!"

He ran to put on the rock climbing gear. When Michael was climbing, he was anxious. His heart was pounding very fast. He wanted to give up. He shouted, “I don’t think I can do it. I’m afraid I will fall. I should come down!” His friends felt disappointed. Tom encouraged him and said, “You can do it! I believe in you! Don’t give up!” Then everyone was encouraging him. Michael finally reached the top. He was relieved and glad that he could keep going.

In the night time, everyone was asleep except Michael. He was in his tent thinking about what would happen if he gave up on rock climbing. He learnt that he should never give up easily on things or he won’t achieve anything.
