Being a Helpful Child

Last month, Linda's mum went to Canada to visit Grandma, who was sick, and stayed there for two weeks. Before she left for Canada, she asked Linda to help with the housework. Linda was excited because she liked doing housework but had never had the chance. Mum was glad that Linda would help and said, 'I will be back in two weeks!'

After her mum left for Canada, Linda made a plan. She decided to clean the bedroom first and then the kitchen. She started by using a broom and dustpan to sweep the floor, which took her an hour. Next, she used a mop and bucket to wash the floor, and that took two hours. In the evening, she dusted the furniture with a feather duster and also did the washing up.

Unfortunately, while washing up, she broke some dishes! She was scared that her mum would punish her when she returned. She asked her dad for help, and they went to a shopping centre to buy some new ones. By the end of the day, Linda felt very tired.

When Linda's mum came home, Linda told her what had happened. Surprisingly, her mum was not mad and replied gently, "Don't worry! Just remember to be more careful next time, okay?" "No problem," said Linda. She had learned how important it is to be careful in everything she does.
