What a Nightmare!

Last night, something unforgettable happened to Jack. He was playing a football computer game late into the night. It was already midnight when his mum knocked on his bedroom door. "Jack? Aren't you asleep yet?"

"Um... I was just about to!" replied Jack. His mum gave him a disapproving look. Jack stood up and started to walk toward the door, but he carelessly tripped over his computer wire! The plug came out of the socket, and the screen went black. Then, a can of orange juice on his desk toppled over, spilling all over his keyboard. Jack's mum was speechless. Jack was shocked. His entire desk was now covered in orange juice. "What have you done?" asked his mum furiously.

As punishment, Jack's mum made him clean up the entire mess, and he was grounded for a week. Jack felt very guilty for what he had done. He learned not to stay up late playing games and not to bring food or drinks into his bedroom. He hoped this would never happen again.
