

A Fatal Accident

One day, May was on her way to a birthday party. She was wearing a cute, long, white dress. While she was walking, she was humming a song. She was delighted.

When May was waiting at the pedestrian crossing, a boy suddenly jumped over the railings. The red traffic light was on but the boy kept running across the road. May shouted at him but he could not hear because he was listening to music with his headphones. At the same time, a double decker bus was coming at a high speed and knocked the boy down.

The boy was seriously hurt and he was bleeding. The bus driver called 999 at once. An ambulance arrived in a few minutes. The paramedics helped to save the boy. Then, the police asked the witness what they have seen.

At last, the boy was sent to the hospital. Luckily, he could be saved. May was still scared after witnessing the accident. Her friends comforted her at the party and gave her a big hug.